Dear [redacted]

In response to your inquiry concerning my plans for next summer, let me say that I am excited by the opportunity you have suggested. Such a position would no doubt greatly increase my knowledge of both the policymaking process and international policy, areas in which I have strong interests. In addition, I hope to offer you well-developed research and writing skills, a strong understanding of some of the economic aspects of international relations and American foreign policy, and an appreciation of the complexity of foreign relations.

[redacted] Since I am in the area, perhaps we can arrange to meet to discuss what you may have in mind.

I have enclosed a resume; a writing sample, transcript, and references are available upon request.

I look forward to a reply at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,
